

Sassy Custom Blends by Sassy Classy Ladies

Kim Weiss has worn many hats throughout her career including lawyer, actress and entrepreneur. In 2008 she opened her first specialty food franchise selling oils, vinegars and spirits. The business was so successful she opened two more locations in Sedona and the Venetian in Las Vegas. To offer a broader selection of gourmet foods and spirits to her customers, Kim has stepped out on her own and created Spirits & Spice, and now Spice Girls. Kim's ability to see potential in relationships, discern quality products and always think two (or ten) steps ahead has created the perfect recipe for success. When Kim discovered Cindy (McClure) and her amazing gourmet drink garnishes she knew they could create remarkable flavors together and challenged Cindy to make spice blends. The passion for delicious and quality products is a shared vision that propels Spice Girls into a class of its own.

Let us introduce you to the mastermind behind our incredible spice line, Cindy McClure. Cindy is the CEO, founder and self-proclaimed Trouble Maker Extraordinaire of Dress the Drink, a gourmet food and drink garnish company created in 2008.

Cindy proudly produces products naturally.

That's right, this means no chemicals, no preservatives no coloring. Her small, five-person team (including her best friend of 30 years) create, manufacture and ship spices that can be found in the gourmet kitchens of Ruth's Chris, Morton's and Eddie V's just to name a few. Her passionate attitude, great sense of humor, unwavering drive and keen business insight make for the perfect partnership with Kim Weiss, owner of Spirits & Spice Jackson Hole, Sedona and Las Vegas. Lucky for us when two passionate and talented foodies get together the outcome is sure to be amazing.
